

SAN DIEGO STADIUM COALITION HOLDS FIRST COMMUNITY MEETING

This Saturday, April 4th, 2009

Group is first of its kind to receive nod from business leaders

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (April 02, 2009) - The San Diego Stadium Coalition, a grass-roots organization whose members are committed to ensure the construction of a world class stadium in San Diego County, is holding its first community meeting this Saturday, April 4th, 1PM at Qualcomm Stadium in section J1 of the parking lot.

The meeting will be open to the public and speakers will discuss the current status of the stadium location search. They will also highlight ways in which every person in the County can participate in this endeavor to facilitate the development of a new stadium using a fiscally, politically and environmentally sound approach.

"This Coalition is the first of its kind to receive recognition from local business leaders," says Jason Riggs, San Diego Stadium Coalition Chairman, "Our goal is to facilitate the process of locating a site for a world-class stadium within San Diego County and educate the public on the benefits of moving forward on this project. We are working transparently with all of the parties involved to assure that the stadium effort is successful and that all of the key stakeholders -- including taxpayers -- have input and are satisfied with the outcome."

About The San Diego Stadium Coalition

The San Diego Stadium Coalition is an organization whose members are wholly committed to working with municipal entities to ensure the construction of a world-class stadium within San Diego County, which will serve as a home for the San Diego Chargers, SDSU Aztecs, BCS Bowl Games, and other events. Our commitment is fueled by a passion for local sports, an acute understanding of the San Diego market and an unyielding desire to keep high profile events and the Chargers (the region's only NFL Franchise) within the County. We will attain our Goal by working transparently with key stakeholders including citizens, politicians, and regional businesses.
